

“Broadcast Balancing”

with

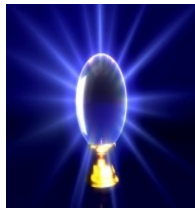

Frequencies & Wave Form

Energy Patterns

What is “Broadcast Balancing?”

Frequencies
broadcast by radio

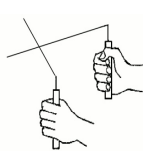

Frequencies
broadcast by crystals

Most people are familiar with how the broadcasting of signals works. There must be a broadcast “station” that transmits the signals and a “receiver” that translates the signals transmitted. There must be appropriate power and bandwidth for the transmitted frequencies to reach the recipient. We experience the transmission of many signals that are broadcast to us on a daily basis from various broadcast stations whether they are a radio station, a cell tower, or a satellite. The “receivers” of these signals are our TV, radio, cell phones and cordless phones. The advent of wireless communication (Wifi) is accepted without question by those who use them. These devices become more and more sophisticated, bringing us information at our fingertips and a way to communicate instantly. Although these signals are invisible and can be sent around the world in an instant, we don’t think of them as unusual in any way. It is a new idea to many, however, that these same principles of broadcasting can be applied to healing energies.

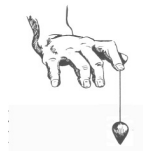

Broadcast balancing uses these principles and applies them to biology, both plant and animal. First, it must be determined what energies are needed by the “receiver”. The energies are then formulated into the appropriate bank of energies to be broadcast to them. This enables the energies that are distorted in the recipient to move into a balanced state. It is a means of sending energy to a recipient at a distance. There are discoveries being made on a daily basis as to how this is best accomplished and what frequencies or wave form patterns can be broadcast that will be most beneficial. The broadcast “station” is not one that we are typically familiar with as in a radio station or cell tower or satellite. Instead, crystals are the perfect medium to hold these frequencies and wave form patterns and to serve as the broadcast station for the frequencies. Just as in other broadcast situations, there must be appropriate power and bandwidth for the transmission. Various specific frequencies or energetic wave forms comprise the components of the energies being broadcast. These energies are then “broadcast” to the recipient. These frequencies travel 87,000 miles per second.

How do you determine the frequencies that need to be broadcast?

“Dowsing”

Dowsing Rods

Pendulum

Kinesiology

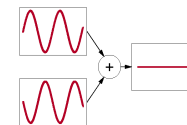

Dowsing is a method of determining answers to questions which represent themselves as a simple “yes” or “no”. This is done typically through the use of dowsing rods, a pendulum or kinesiology (muscle response testing). Although these methods are not generally well known to the public at large, their use dates back to ancient times. Dowsing was used as a means of finding water, determining the best location in which to build a structure, or to determine if there were negative geopathic energies coming from the earth itself.

How does dowsing work?

It is possible to obtain a “yes” or “no” answer to a question because the world is set up to work based on a system of polarities. Dowsing aids in determining these polarities. Polarities are determined by quantum wave functions. The quantum wave functions of everything in reality are in a universal database. Asking a question and dowsing for a response represents a “testing” of this universal database and an energetic response represents as a simple “yes” or “no”. This works somewhat like a Quantum Wave Computer. Asking a question represents the setting up of a quantum wave function. Determining the appropriate question may be done using dowsing rods, a pendulum or through kinesiology. With it the needs of the recipient may be determined as well as the frequencies to broadcast.

How does a person act as a “Receiver”?

“Like” Frequencies
cancel each other out

“Unlike” Frequencies
bypass one another

We know from physics that there are specific energies that surround and emanate from all physical things. When these energies are in harmony, they vibrate at the same frequency which establishes a relationship of “resonance” between them. Harmony exists between the two and this harmony is described as being in a state of “coherence”. When these energies are not in harmony, they vibrate at different frequencies, which establishes a relationship of “discord” between them. Dowsing for these harmonious or disharmonious energies establishes whether or not there is a positive or negative energy between the two. Simply asking a question and measuring the response will determine the state of energies in response to the question that is asked.

Hologram of Human

Technological Hologram

The advent of Quantum Physics is making the process of broadcasting more understandable as the notion of “holograms” is basic to this understanding. The holographic concept is that a part of a subject holds the blueprint of the entirety of that subject. This has been demonstrated in scientific experiments where a subject is in one room and cells taken from the subject are under a microscope in a different room. When something was done to the subject, it was reflected in changes in the cells in a totally separate space. Thus, there was an immediate energetic connection between the two and what happened to one happened to the other simultaneously.

This is basic to the understanding of broadcasting and why it is effective when the person (recipient of the energies) is not physically present. The recipient may be represented by a photograph, a blood sample on a swab or a swab of saliva. Based on the holographic principal, this “part” of the recipient holds the blueprint of the “whole.” As frequencies are broadcast to the representative of the recipient, the recipient receives them simultaneously. Einstein’s saying that quantum physics was “spooky things happening at a distance” is coming to be more and more understood. What was once science fiction, such as in the movie “Star Wars” is becoming a reality. Even Steve Jobs was working on the possibility of holographic representations through wireless transmissions.

A more in depth scientific explanation is that the energies that are broadcast are imposed on the existing energies of the recipient and “interfere” with all other quantum wave possibilities. This happens instantaneously. Coherence happens. When “like” finds “like”, all other energies vanish. The solution coheres to the question! “Like” resonant frequencies match and cohere. It is much like a singer hitting a note that matches the frequencies of a crystal glass and the glass instantly shattering. The energetic frequencies or wave forms that are broadcast create energies that are interference patterns. These interface with imbalanced energy signatures found in the recipient. Every state has an “energy signature”. When this signature is in a harmonic (coherent) state, good health is promoted. When this energy signature is in a chaotic (incoherent) state, the normal defense system of the body is disrupted, creating discomfort and dis-ease.

Asking a question sets up a quantum wave function, sending out a specific energy. Dowsing for a response represents whether or not the energies are “coherent”. If so, the natural defense system of the body is able to access the correct information from the field and perform at its highest level, defending the body against improper or imbalanced energies (information) that are imposed upon it, and returns it to, or maintains, an optimal state of health. A human condition must be balanced to 70-90 millivolts before it can heal itself.

“Broadcast Balancing” Protocol:

A specific, step by step procedure of asking specific questions and determining specific answers to determine what energies are needed to establish harmony. The energies that are broadcast provide energetic potential to disrupt inharmonious energetic field patterns (blockages) and eliminate these disruptive patterns from the system, creating greater bio-field harmonization.

“Broadcast Balancing”

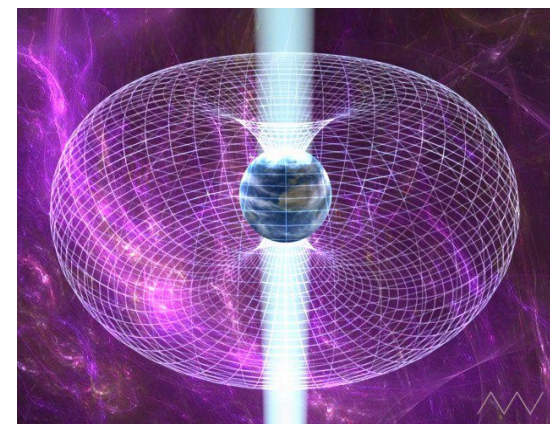

Applies to all biological life in the plant and animal world.

“Broadcast Balancing”

with

Frequencies & Wave Form Energy Patterns

A unique approach to “Energy Balancing”

The Torus

Natures fundamental energy pattern. A self sustaining energy that is furthering the understanding of the nature of the “unified field”

Every living thing; humans, plants & animals are also a Torus energy pattern, explaining how all living things continually exchange energy with the energy in the universe!